1 What is Council Tax?

Council Tax is a property-based tax paid to local authorities. It is charged on domestic, self-contained dwellings such as houses, flats, bungalows, houseboats and mobile homes, whether owned or rented. Every dwelling receives one Council Tax bill. If a property contains non-self-contained units (for example, a house divided into bedsits with a shared bathroom and kitchen) the property is one dwelling and gets one bill.

Every domestic dwelling is placed in one of eight Council Tax bands depending on its value in 1991. A is the lowest band and H is the highest. The amount payable in each band is determined by two factors: first, each local authority sets an overall amount each year and second, the amount of tax payable varies between valuation bands in proportions fixed by law.

2 Your Council Tax bill

Local authorities should send out a Council Tax bill every year to every dwelling that is not exempt. Bills are usually sent out in March with the first payment due in April. One bill is sent to each dwelling regardless of how many people live there. One person or several people may be liable to pay the bill, depending on who lives in the property. The people in a household can decide how, or if, to share the bill between them, but the liable person or people remain responsible in law.

If you were liable for Council Tax in the past but were not billed, a bill can often be backdated. There is no time limit but local authorities should send your bill without unreasonable delays. If there has been a delay of several years sending out your bill, the local authority may not be able to enforce payment. Seek advice in this situation.

Your Council Tax bill should show the full amount of Council Tax for the dwelling according to its valuation band for the whole year, and show any disability reduction, discount, discretionary reduction and/or Council Tax Support (CTS). The local authority assume you remain eligible for any reductions, CTS or discounts for the whole of the financial year.

The bill may show any credits due from past periods, penalties and repayments of overpaid CTS and has the ‘chargeable amount’ for the year – which is the amount you are required to pay. You should be sent a new bill if your chargeable amount changes, for example if you become entitled to a discount or a different amount of CTS.

Most people have the right to pay in instalments. The usual arrangement is 10 monthly instalments but there can be different arrangements. Your bill should include the instalment arrangements and the different ways you can pay the bill. Local authorities can choose to offer discounts if you pay by direct debit or make one lump sum payment at the start of the year. If you overpay your Council Tax or an adjustment puts your bill in credit, it is usually possible to get a refund.
3 Who has to pay Council Tax

An adult resident of a dwelling is normally liable for the Council Tax. For Council Tax purposes, you are ‘resident’ in a dwelling if it is your sole or main residence and you can only be resident in one dwelling at a time.

Where you are resident is usually straightforward; if not, your sole or main residence should be the dwelling that a ‘reasonable onlooker’ with knowledge of the facts would decide was your home at the time.

Factors such as how much time you spend at different addresses and your security of tenure in them and where you are registered for voting and medical treatment may be relevant.

For the dwelling in which you live, the rules on liability are:

- If you own your home, you are liable for Council Tax and if a partner lives with you, they are jointly liable, whether or not they are joint owners. A partner can be a spouse, civil partner or someone you live with as if married or civil partners. Any joint owners resident with you are also jointly liable.

- If you rent your home from a non-resident landlord, you are liable for Council Tax. If you have a partner who lives with you they are jointly liable (even if not mentioned on the tenancy agreement) as are any joint tenants.

- If you rent your home from a resident landlord, your landlord is liable.

- If you are a tenant or licensee in a house in multiple occupation (perhaps a bedsit, hostel or non-self-contained accommodation), the landlord/owner is liable whether resident or not.

- If you live in a care home, hostel, or religious community, the owner of the property is liable whether resident or not.

- If you are an asylum seeker, the owner may be liable whether resident or not – seek advice if this applies to you.

The local authority has the right to ask residents and property owners for information to help them decide who is resident and who is liable for Council Tax.

Local authorities have the power to impose penalties if you do not respond to a request for information.

You can appeal against any penalty or decision about where you are resident and who is liable for Council Tax that is imposed. See section 11 for more on challenging decisions.
Examples
Anna lives with her son in a private rented house. The tenancy is in her son’s name so he is solely liable for Council Tax, although Anna may agree to help with the bill. If they were joint tenants, they would both be liable.

Sam and his wife Paula own their house. Their daughter lives with them and pays rent. Sam and Paula are jointly liable for the Council Tax. They may ask their daughter to make a contribution towards the Council Tax or they could increase her rent to cover some of the bill.

4 Are you in the right Council Tax band?

The Valuation Office Agency (VOA), part of HMRC, values dwellings to determine which Council Tax band should be allocated. The banding decision is based on the theoretical price the dwelling might have been expected to fetch on the open market in April 1991, taking into account certain assumptions, including that the property is in reasonable repair.

In general, increases or decreases in property prices do not mean your property moves into a different band. However, major changes do sometimes mean properties can move into different bands.

Example
If an extension is built the property may be worth more – although it only moves to a higher band when it is next sold. A property can move into a lower band, for example if adaptations for a disabled person reduce its value or a motorway is built nearby. Properties can move down a band as soon as a change occurs.

If you think your property is in the wrong band because of the sort of major change described above, you can ‘make a proposal’ to alter the band. You can also make a proposal to change the band if you have moved to the property within the last six months or if your property has appeared on the valuation list in the last six months, for example because it is a new home.

You may also be able to make a proposal if there has been an appeal decision on a comparable dwelling that gives you grounds for arguing the valuation band of your dwelling should be changed.
4.1 Making a proposal

You can make a proposal by writing to the local VOA office or by contacting them for a form. You must give information about yourself, the dwelling, the band you are seeking for the dwelling and why you believe the current band is incorrect. When the VOA receives your proposal, a listing officer decides whether your proposal is valid or invalid.

If your proposal is considered invalid, you receive an invalidity notice telling you why and giving you the opportunity to make a further proposal or to appeal to the Valuation Tribunal for England against the invalidity notice.

If your proposal is considered valid, there are several possible outcomes:

- the listing officer may agree your proposal
- a new band for the dwelling may be agreed which is different from the one you proposed
- the Valuation Tribunal may hear the case as an appeal and make a decision
- you may withdraw the proposal

A local advice agency may be able to help you with a proposal to change the band allocated to your home.

5 What happens if you do not pay your Council Tax

If you are liable for Council Tax, it is important to make it a priority for payment because non-payment can have serious consequences. If you do not pay a Council Tax instalment on time, you should receive a reminder requiring payment within seven days.

If you still fail to pay, the Council can demand you pay the full amount for the year and apply to a Magistrates’ Court for a liability order. If this happens, you may also become liable for costs. There are different ways of enforcing a liability order, such as a direct deduction from wages or benefits, or seizure of your possessions by bailiffs.

Action

If you fall behind with your Council Tax bill, seek advice from an independent agency as soon as possible. Phone Age UK Advice for details of your local Age UK or approach another advice service.
6 Reducing your Council Tax bill

There are various ways to reduce your Council Tax bill:

- Check if you are in the correct Council Tax band and, if not, can you get the band changed? – see section 4.
- Check if your property can be exempt – do any of the criteria in section 7 apply? No Council Tax is payable on exempt properties.
- Check if you qualify for the disability reduction scheme – the property may be placed in a lower band if it has certain features for a disabled person living there, such as extra space for a wheelchair – see section 8.
- Check if you qualify for a discount – your bill may be discounted by one quarter or one half: for example, if you live alone in a property or count as living alone, you are entitled to a 25 per cent discount – see section 9.
- Apply for a discretionary reduction in your Council Tax – see section 9.4.
- Check if you qualify for Council Tax Support (CTS) – a rebate if you and/or people you live with have a low income - see section 10.
- Check if there are discounts for paying by direct debit or one lump sum.

You might qualify for more than one type of reduction, in which case the reductions are applied in the same order as listed above.

Example

Dawn is disabled and lives alone. Her house is in band D, which means a basic Council Tax of £1,100. She has a low income. As she fulfils the conditions for a disability reduction, her Council Tax is reduced to that of a Band C property, which is £1,000.

It is also reduced by 25 per cent to £750 because of the discount for living alone. As she has a low income, she applies for CTS. Her entitlement to CTS is based on her Council Tax liability after the disability reduction and the single person discount are applied.

7 Council Tax exemptions

If a dwelling is exempt, there is no Council Tax to pay.

Many types of exemption apply to different types of empty property, but there are also important exemptions for some people, including students and people who have a severe mental impairment.
7.1 Unoccupied dwelling exemptions

A local authority may decide to exempt an unoccupied dwelling that is unfurnished for up to:

- 12 months if it needs, is undergoing, or has recently had major repairs
- six months for any other reason.

An unoccupied dwelling, whether furnished or not, should be exempt if:

- left empty by someone in prison or detained under immigration or mental health powers
- left empty by someone in a hospital, care home or hostel where personal care is provided (this does not apply to temporary stays in hospital)
- left empty by someone who has gone to live somewhere else to provide or receive personal care due to age, illness, disability, past/present alcohol or drug dependence or past/present mental disorder
- it is an empty caravan pitch or houseboat mooring
- it is going to be occupied by ministers of religion
- left empty by its owner who is a student
- left empty by someone who has died and letters of administration or probate have not been granted or were granted less than six months ago
- it is the responsibility of a bankrupt’s trustees
- it cannot be let/occupied without breaching planning or other legal restrictions
- owned by a charity and has been unoccupied for less than six months
- repossessed by a mortgage lender.

7.2 Occupied dwelling exemptions

An occupied dwelling can be exempt if it is:

- wholly occupied by one or more people who have a severe mental impairment (see section 8.1)
- wholly occupied by students (or students and severely mentally impaired people)
- wholly occupied by people under the age of 18
- a student hall of residence
- armed forces barracks, married quarters or visiting forces accommodation
- one of at least two dwellings in a single property occupied by a dependant relative of someone resident in another part of the property.
7.3 Applying for an exemption

If you think you qualify for an exemption, you can ask for one. Ask your local authority if they have a special form or write to them requesting the exemption, stating the reasons you qualify and the date from which it should be applied.

There is no time limit for applying and an exemption can be backdated to the date it should have first applied. You may have to produce evidence that the exemption applied throughout the backdating period. There are other exemptions in Scotland.

8 Disability reduction scheme

This scheme may apply if your home has features that make it suitable for someone living in it who has a disability. This may apply if you have either:

- an additional bathroom or kitchen for the use of a disabled person
- enough space for the disabled person to use a wheelchair indoors
- a room (other than a bathroom, kitchen or WC) which is mainly used by the disabled person – this might be a treatment room, a room for special equipment such as for dialysis, or, in some cases, an additional bedroom.

If your home qualifies for a disability reduction, your bill is reduced by one band. For example, if your home is valued in band C, you have to pay the amount for a band B property. If you live in a band A property that has one of the features described above, your bill is reduced by one sixth.

8.1 Applying for the disability reduction scheme

Contact your local authority to apply for a disability reduction on your Council Tax. Your local authority may have a form you can fill in, otherwise write to them requesting the reduction, stating the reasons you qualify and the date you would like it applied from.

There is no time limit for applying and a disability reduction can be backdated to the date it should have first applied. You may have to produce evidence that you met the conditions for the reduction throughout the backdating period.

The local authority may visit the dwelling or request supporting evidence from a doctor, social worker or other professional that the adaptation to the property is appropriate for the disabled person. You need to renew the application at the start of each financial year.

If the local authority refuses to award a disability reduction, the decision can be appealed see section 11.
9 Discounts

The full Council Tax assumes there are two or more people living in each dwelling. A discount is given if fewer than two adults count as resident for Council Tax purposes.

You can sometimes qualify for a Council Tax discount, even if several people are in your household, if enough of them are not counted for Council Tax. This is sometimes called being ‘invisible’ for Council Tax.

The following subsection explains how to work out who is counted as being resident in your property for Council Tax purposes.

9.1 How many people count for Council Tax?

To work out if you qualify for a discount, the first thing to do is to count up the number of people resident in your property for Council Tax purposes leaving out:

- Anyone who has a severe mental impairment. To qualify, a doctor has to provide a certificate confirming they have a severe mental impairment. The cause of the impairment is not important – it can be an impairment from birth like a learning disability or a condition like Alzheimer’s disease. They must be entitled to (although not necessarily receiving) AA, DLA middle or high rate care component, PIP daily living component, Severe Disablement Allowance, Incapacity Benefit, ESA, Income Support (with a disability premium), Working Tax Credit (with a disability element) Constant Attendance Allowance payable with Industrial Injuries or War Pensions scheme, unemployment allowance payable under the Industrial Injuries scheme or would have been entitled to one of these benefits if they were under State Pension age.
- Anyone whose sole or main residence is somewhere else.
- Anyone aged under the age of 18.
- Anyone for whom Child Benefit is payable and recent school/college leavers under the age of 20.
- Full-time students, student nurses, certain apprentices and certain trainees.
- Any carer who, for at least 35 hours a week, looks after someone in the same household who receives AA, DLA middle or high rate care component, PIP daily living component, armed forces independence payment or the highest rate of constant AA and is not the partner of the person being cared for, or the parent of the person cared for, if that person is a child under the age of 18.

This can apply to carers who work and/or are over State Pension age. More than one carer can be disregarded as long as they meet these conditions.
• Some care workers who are volunteers working on behalf of, or introduced to the person they care for by a charity, government department or local authority and who fulfil certain conditions.

These are usually young people belonging to an organisation such as Community Service Volunteers, working at least 24 hours a week and having accommodation provided on the premises.

9.2 The amount of discount

Once you have worked out how many people count as living in your property, the following discounts apply:

• a discount of 25 per cent, often called the single person discount, if only one person is, or counts as, resident

• a discount of up to 50 per cent if no one is counted as resident (but remember you can get a total exemption if no one counts as resident because all residents are severely mentally impaired or students).

The rules on discounts are separate from the rules on liability. This means there can be situations where a person who is invisible for Council Tax is still liable to pay the Council Tax bill.

Examples

Wendy is a widow living alone. Her liability for Council Tax is £1,200. As she lives alone, she gets a single person’s discount. The bill is reduced by 25 per cent to £900.

Natasha and Khalid are married and no one else lives with them. Khalid has Alzheimer’s disease and receives AA. His doctor signs a form to say he is ‘severely mentally impaired’. Khalid becomes ‘invisible’ and Natasha is now the only person who counts for Council Tax. A 25 per cent discount is given.

Jenny has Alzheimer’s disease and gets high rate AA. Her son lives with her and looks after her for over 35 hours a week. Jenny is invisible for Council Tax as she is severely mentally impaired. So is her son because he is discounted as Jenny’s carer.

No one in the household counts for Council Tax and a 50 per cent discount is given. Jenny remains liable to pay the remaining amount because she is the sole owner of the property.
9.3 Reduced discounts
In most cases, the maximum discount available under these rules is 50 per cent of the bill.

Local authorities can reduce the discount to more than 50 per cent on certain, furnished dwellings in which no one has their sole or main residence, for example second homes, but this is dependent on each local authority.

9.4 Other discretionary discounts
Local authorities can make other discounts available in their area, for example because of hardship or a natural disaster. You may wish to check with your local authority whether any extra discounts are available.

You can write to the chief executive of the local authority with full reasons and supporting evidence if possible. The local authority should give you a written decision, with reasons. You do not have a right to appeal against a refusal but you can make a complaint.

9.5 Applying for a discount
The local authority may ask you for information to decide whether you should be getting any discounts. There may be special forms to apply for some types of discount. A discount can be backdated to the date it should have first applied, but you may need to provide proof that you have qualified for the discount throughout the backdating period.

Whilst there is no limit to how far an application for backdating can be made, it is likely that the local authority will limit backdating to 6 years.

10 Council Tax Support (CTS)
Each local authority is responsible for operating its own local scheme of CTS (also known as Council Tax Reduction). Eligibility and the amount of support varies from one local authority area to the next.

In order to qualify for CTS you must not usually have savings exceeding £16,000 (unless you qualify for PC, see section 10.1), and you must have a ‘right to reside’ in the UK.

This factsheet is not an exhaustive resource covering all of the schemes available for CTS in England. For specific information relating to the scheme in your area, contact your local authority or seek local advice.

Alternatively, you can check details of your local scheme at www.gov.uk/apply-council-tax-reduction.
10.1 CTS for pensioners

People over Pension Credit (PC) qualifying age are given the same level of support under CTS schemes as they got under the old Council Tax Benefit rules. You do not need to be receiving PC to obtain this rebate, although you are subject to the same eligibility screening or means-testing as someone who is receiving it. To find out if you are of PC qualifying age, see www.gov.uk/state-pension-age.

If you receive the Guarantee Credit element of PC your income and capital is disregarded completely. You may receive a full rebate on your council tax bill.

If you only receive the Savings Credit element of PC, your CTS eligibility depends on the level of savings or capital you have. Your local authority carry out a means test and if you have over £16,000 in savings, you are not eligible. Any lump sum payments from deferred State Pension are disregarded when calculating capital.

Note
If you do not currently receive PC, get a benefits check. Speak to your local Age UK or see www.gov.uk/benefits-calculators. Even a small amount of PC means you are entitled to other support such as CTS. See factsheet 48, Pension Credit, for more information.

10.2 Second Adult Rebate (SAR)

Second Adult Rebate is a different sort of CTS, also known as alternative maximum CTS. It is not based on your income and savings but on the income and savings of one or more other people living in your household.

SAR can reduce your Council Tax if another person on a low income lives with you who is not your spouse, civil partner or unmarried partner (and as a result you lose your entitlement to the single person discount of 25 per cent). Check with your local authority and seek advice to find out whether this is available in your area.

11 Appeals and changes of circumstances

You have the right to appeal against a decision to refuse a discount, reduction (but not a discretionary reduction), exemption or CTS. First, you should appeal to the local authority that made the decision. The local authority has two months to respond to your appeal.
If the appeal is unsuccessful you can make a further appeal to the Valuation Tribunal for England as long as you do so within two months of receiving the decision. If the local authority does not reply to your appeal, you have four months from the date of your appeal to make a further appeal to the Valuation Tribunal.

It is your responsibility to tell the local authority of changes in your circumstances, for example if you no longer live alone or are no longer entitled to a discount or exemption. Notify the local authority within 21 days of the change or they could impose a fine. You have the right to appeal to the Valuation Tribunal for England against any fine.
